Official Business

The February meeting had another good turnout, this time without a single chapter officer present! Perhaps we need to consider one other position, that of Vice President, on the staff for the future just in case.

Copies of several documents were made available for review:

- Budget statement.
- Draft of the application for charter membership with the AAW. If anyone has comments or suggested changes please let the Secretary know.
- Contact Roster, changes were noted and a revised edition will be available for all to take home next month.
- A proposed newsletter format with a proposed logo for the chapter. Again, any recommendations for changes are welcome, just let the Secretary know and he will update for all to review.

Bob Pruitt was the winner of the Door Prize, a beautiful piece of Honey Locust provided by Maynard, and Maynard Miller won the Bring-Back Raffle.

Demonstration

Maynard Miller put on a superb demonstration of miniature turning, creating a bowl from Cocobolo and Holly. Always sharing his techniques, he had several of the members involved in the process, and combined teaching with showing. James Shinkle, and Jane Boone, are featured in the images above, getting into the creative process.

Coming in March

- Our demonstrator will be Larry Walrath from the Central Texas Woodturners Association in the Austin Area. Larry is a well know turner and artisan, his work can be seen on-line at www.larrywalrath.com. Pictured is an example of his work.

- Business agenda calls for finalizing the charter submission and newsletter layout.

- Brock Boone has donated a piece of Pecan for the door prize, and we are looking for a volunteer to bring the snacks.
